Babs Richardson Is Successful Both In Business, On Stage

By Leslie Geyer, Senior

Barbara Richardson is one of Carmel's busiest women and certainly one of the most talented around. Besides working daily with her husband Dick in their clothing store, The Casual Shop, she also finds time to act in many of the theatrical productions around on the peninsula. She's a wife, mother, grandmother, actress, and store owner; yet no matter how busy she is, she practically always has a cheery frame of mind. Her most recent accomplishment was a benefit performance of three parts at the Circle Theatre. All the proceeds of this double night performance went for the theatre's new switchboard, which was acutely needed.

Babs was born in West Wales, England, but early in her childhood moved to Toronto, Canada, where she spent most of her life. Her interest in drama was first kindled in school. Her father, who was an actor on the English stage at the time, encouraged her dramatic interests yet did not advocate her turning professional. After she was married Babs joined a stock company called the John Holden Players. The company played in Toronto and Winnipeg. She stayed with this group eight years.

After leaving Toronto, the Richardsons lived in Vancouver, British Columbia, for seven years, and then they came to Carmel in 1955 where they have remained for the past two years.

The Richardsons' coming to Carmel and staying was actually an accident. As so often happens, they were just driving through and they fell in love with the town. Luckily they found a little shop for sale which they bought and set up later as the Casual Shop, specializing in Scottish Tartans.

Babs revealed that of all the parts she played she "liked" her part in Come Back Little Sheba, but her favorite was that of Aunt Anna Rose in Treasure Hunt.

They're such a nice couple who really lend themselves to our Carmel atmosphere.

Bill Smith Former U. W. All American

By Joe Mason, Junior

Bill Smith, the present owner of Kip's Food Center in Carmel, was one of the football greats in the 1930s. The ex-All American from the University of Washington was one of the best ends in college in that era. He was also an expert at kicking field goals and extra points. Once he booted a pair of long fielld goals against Stanford University to halt the Rose Bowl bound Indians.

Smith was the starting left end in the first Shrine East-West game in the history of the classic event.

With his all around play in the game, speed and ability for passes, crushing blocks and jolting tackles, the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League picked him for the pro ranks. For the next six years, he starred as left end and made the All Pro first unit, the highest honor in football.

He has been living in Carmel for 12 years and likes it very much.

PADRE TRAILS SPONSOR WELLINGTON LEE EXHIBIT

The Padre Trails Camera Club at their meeting May 2 at 8:00 o'clock at Carmel High School library, will present a traveling exhibit of prints by Wellington Lee, internationally known photographer, associate member of the Photographic Society of America. President Ed Brooks will preside.

Commentary on the Lee show will be made by Grant Duggins of Sacramento, Fellow of PSA.

The public is invited to tonight's Padre Trails meeting.

Cartoonist's Life "A Mixed-up Job" Says Bill O'Malley

By Lena Virgin, Sophomore

"It's a mixed-up job!" that's Bill O'Mallley's definition of cartooning. "This," he explained, "means that in June I have to think of Christmas and while watching a football game I have to be thinking of baseball." The reason for this is that all the cartoons have to be done so far in advance.

Mr. O'Malley is a prominent cartoonist now working for the United Features Syndicate. He has created a comic strip called The Reverend. While other little boys practiced their trumpet lessons, he got his start as an artist, practicing drawing. He has had published many books on cartoons and one on golf; his latest release is called O'Malley's Nuns.

Scandinavia means a lot to him. This is due to his wife being from Norway. He especially likes her Norwegian cooking. They have just come back from a two months' cruise of the South Seas. This they did on a Norwegian freighter, which is their favorite means of transportation. Traveling is one of his most enjoyable pastimes, and he has been to many countries in Europe. His other favorite activity is playing golf. He says that while playing he travels a lot too, but this time it's through the woods and sand looking for the golf ball.

When asked if he had received any prizes or awards he laughed and said, "I won a turkey on a raffle once!"

Being in the humor business, Bill O'Malley certainly gives the impression that he enjoys every minute of life and wants to share it with everyone. Asked what the greatest moment in his life was, he said, "I haven't come to it yet." Probably life is so much fun for him that he can't quite put his finger on the most important moment.

Cast Announced For The Living Room At Golden Bough Circle

The Golden Bough Circle Theatre is presenting The Living Room, a psychological drama, as their next production, opening tomorrow evening and continuing over six weekends.

The leading role of Rose Pemberton will be taken by Janet Fluehr, with Carolyn Clark making a later appearance. Peg Miner will play Rose's Aunt Teresa, with Ruth Ware taking the part of the other maiden aunt, Helen Browne. Father Browne, Rose's uncle, is portrayed by a newcomer to the Circle, Bud Haughton.

Other new faces are Clifton Robertson as Michael Dennis, Rose's married lover, with Kaye Benson as Mrs. Dennis. The cast is rounded out by Nancy Lofton playing the role of Mary, the maid.

The production staff consists of Charles Thomas, direction and staging; Ramon Wilson, assistant director; Polly Bowhay, production assistant; Don Ross, stage manager; Kit Jones, lights; Nancy Lofton and Carolyn Clark, props; and Rhoda Johnson, costumes.

Carmel Post Office Losing Edna Edwards

By Kay Wilson, Senior

After Friday the cheerful face of Edna Edwards will be gone from the parcel post window at the Carmel Post Office. She is retiring after 34 years as a postal clerk, the first 24 years spent in Oakland and the last ten in Carmel.

Last Saturday noon a luncheon was given at the LaPlaya Hotel in honor of Miss Edwards by Wesley Kergan, Carmel attorney. Her fellow employees shared the luncheon and presented her with a gift.

Although retiring, Miss Edwards still plans to be very active and has "several things in mind" which she would like to do.

When asked if she found it necessary to change her attitude in meeting the many people coming to her window each day she replied, "You must adjust your day to the mood of the people. Whatever you give of yourself you will receive in return. You must meet the people half-way." Evidently here, too, a smile brings a smile and a frown a frown.

Credit Line . . .

This edition of the Pine Cone has been put out by the Carmel High School students under the direction of the journalism class taught by Mr. Fred Rainer. Sue Bestor and Hazel Tice head the staff as editors, with Mike O'Shea, sports editor. Reporters from the journalism class were Lacy Williams, Mike Blanton, Polly Gann, Joe Mason, Dorothy Holm, Leslie Geyer, Laurel Martin, Lena Virgin, Marsha Gifford, and Dianne Weaver.

The front cover is a linoleum cut by Joan Engle, Junior.

THE SENIOR PLAY

On May 9 and 10, the Senior class of Carmel High School will present The Importance of Being Earnest at Sunset Auditorium at 8:00 o'clock.

The Importance of Being Earnest, a play, written by Oscar Wilde, takes place in England during the Victorian era. It is a three-act comedy and should be extremely interesting to both children and adults.

The cast of the play includes Leslie Geyer, Paul Prince, Linda Teague, Bruce Newell, Nancy McKay, Bob Potter, Luraine Dearing, Greg Sherman, and Carey Edson. The committee chairmen are Nancy Sheldon, prompters; Bill Wallace, tickets; Karin Rice, costumes; Hampton Stewart, sound; Tweed Champe, scenery; Fred Bruggeman, lighting; Georgia Hoxie, programs; Linda Moll, publicity; Hazel Tice, make-up; Tessie Requiro, ushers; Sue Bestor, properties; and Les Laky, stage manager.

This is one of the favorite comedies of all time. The Senior class is planning to contribute much of the proceeds to the Foreign Exchange Student Summer Program.

Carmel By The Sea City Of Contrasts

This year, in putting out the Pine Cone, the publications class of Carmel High School has endeavored to present a picture of the town through its local personalities and community events. Also, it is our desire to call attention to the various contrasts found in the activities and backgrounds of Carmel people.

Because of the natural interest people have in each other, we have decided to interview various individuals in the different fields. This has been an excellent opportunity for the class to practice the techniques used in a personal interview, and meeting these people has been exciting and enjoyable.

The editor wishes to thank all those who have participated in the writing of this issue of the Pine Cone, both from the high school and the journalism class at Sunset.

Sheriff's Deputy Shoots To Save Soldier From Ocean

Gary Johnson of Fort Ord was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital by the Carmel Red Cross ambulance on Sunday afternoon at 3:55 o'clock. A call was made to the Carmel Police Department when Johnson was seen to be in distress in the ocean off Thirteenth Street. The Carmel police, realizing a line would have to be shot to Johnson in order to bring him to shore, called the Sheriff's office, which sent a deputy with a gun, who shot a line to Johnson, enabling him to reach the beach.

Castroville Girl 9 Bitten By Rabid Dog

A Castroville girl was bitten by a rabid dog on April 24. The dog died two hours after the biting; its brain was sent to the State Health Department and yesterday the diagnosis came: the dog was definitely rabid.

The child is now undergoing the Pasteur treatment for rabies.

This dog is known to have bitten at least one other animal, and may have bitten others. If any persons or domestic animals have been bitten, it should be reported to the Health Department immediately. The Health Department urges dog owners to vaccinate their pets against rabies at once, unless the animal has received anti-rabies protection during the past two years, as definite proof now exists that rabies has spread to domestic pets in the county.

CAPTAIN GLEASON AND P.O. DISTRIBUTE C.D. NOTICES

The Monterey County Civil Defense and Disaster Council, after recent conference with Civil Defense directors of Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove, Salinas and other cities in the county, have prepared an outline of alert procedures for ready reference of householders.

Capt. H. M. Gleason, assistant director of Civil Defense, Carmel, announces that the Carmel Post Office is co-operating in the distribution of these alert procedure notices.

Boxholders and general delivery patrons of the Carmel Post Office are asked to take their notice from a supply which will be on display within the next week or ten days in the post office.

People receiving their mail on routes Nos. 1 and 2, rural delivery, will have their notices delivered to their boxes by the rural route carriers.

Council Holds Up Motel Tax Hike

BY MICHAEL BLANTON, SOPHOMORE

Carmel City Council met last night in an adjourned meeting called expressly for the purpose of considering the new proposed city tax and business license ordinance.

The meeting was begun by Mayor Horace D. Lyon, at 7:44 o'clock. Mayor Lyon began reading the proposed ordinance, which was devised by City Tax and License Collector Arthur Plaxton, City Attorney John Morse, and City Clerk Larry Rose. Present in the audience were August Nieto, president of the Carmel Business Association, and Kenneth Brown, representing the Carmel Motel Association. Because of their presence, much of the material in the 27-page ordinance was skipped in the first reading, and the section on taxation of motels was brought up prematurely. In the proposed ordinance, motels and hotels, which now pay $2.50 a room up to 30 rooms with no taxes on rooms in addition to 30, would pay $5.00 per room, on all rooms, with no 30-room tax ceiling.

Mr. Brown took exception, saying that he thought this would be inequitable. His reasons: (1) that some of the smaller motels, charging less for their rooms than the larger motels, would pay a greater percent of their total gross receipts, and (2) that if the room were not occupied at all during the year, a tax would still be charged on it. The alternate method suggested by Mr. Brown was that all hotels and motels would pay on the same basis as other merchants and business men, that of taxation on a brackets system, resting totally on the gross receipts. He offered to assist the license committee work out a special tax schedule on a gross receipts structure for the motel-hotel owners.

Mr. Rose read a paragraph from a report by Malcolm M. Davisson, tax consultant for the League of California Cities, which states that the usual method of taxation of hotels and other such establishments was on a different basis than that of other merchants, owing to the very nature of the rooming business. Such business makes more demands on the city services (fire, police, streets, etc.).

Arthur Plaxton, tax collector, said that if this were revised to a gross receipts basis, it would seriously reduce the amount of anticipated revenue to the city through this source.

Councilmen Francis Whitaker and Carl Patnude appeared to be willing to go along with the suggestion of gross receipts, but Councilman James Buffington, himself a motel owner, felt that per-unit tax was the better method.

The council agreed to discuss this matter at a second adjourned meeting to be set at a meeting tonight.

Another debated subject was that of vending machines. Under Monterey ordinance, all vending machines pay $1.00 per year. In the Carmel ordinance, such machines would be taxed as follows:

Machines requiring deposits of 5c, $25 per year.

Machines requiring deposits of 10c, $50 per year.

Machines requiring deposits of 25c, $100 per year.

Machines having more than one insertion slot, paying the tax for that slot which has the highest monetary denomination.

Mr. Nieto and Mr. Brown, objecting, said that under the proposed system, this would mean that present owners of establishments having cigarette and "coke" machines as a catering service to patrons rather than for a profit, could not afford to keep them. It was pointed out that most of the vending machines were owned by out-of-town chain operators who gave the merchants a percent of the profits from the machines as.

Proposed Changes In License Ordinance

The new city license ordinance, now under study by the city council, proposes to double the present fixed fees, and make the following changes in fees based on gross sales:

Reduce the tax on gross sales up to $10,000 per year; tax for the $10,000 to $20,000 per year bracket remains the same; there on up to $50,000 gross per year, 20 percent increase; from $50,000 gross per year, 33 1/3 percent increase.

The present gross receipts schedule stops at $120,000 with a maximum tax of $100 per year, regardless of the amounts of gross sales over $120,000. The new ordinance proposes to tax on a percentage basis up to $180,000 per year ($180 fee). Over $180,000 gross the annual tax would be $180 plus $20 for each $20,000 in excess of $180,000.

No More Blank Walls Adams' Suggestion To Carmel Planners

By Sue Bestor, Senior

Floyd Adams, Carmel building inspector, appearing before the Planning Commission study session Tuesday afternoon ,stated that in his opinion the Carmel Building Ordinance of 1955 is not serving the purpose for which it was intended in the business zone. A builder, faced with the alternative of building a wall with windows ten feet from the property line, in the C-1 zone, will be forced by need to make the most economic use of his land and choose the property line blank wall. Had the law not been changed, Carmel residents would not now be distressed by the number of blank walls in the town. Since the law was written to preserve the beauty of the village, Adams feels it was a mistake to revise the ordinance of 1937 which permitted a wall with openings to be built at the three-foot line. It is his intention to ask the council at their next meeting to change the 1955 ordinance to allow construction of a wall with openings three feet from the property line, and he asked the Planning Commission to consider the matter in advance.

He also asked them to re-define the word "landscaping". In its present form the C-1 and C-2 proposed amendment to the interim ordinance does not make it clear whether or not paths, driveways, and black-top areas are included in the amount of land devoted to landscaping. He also wondered whether open land must be open to the sky, and suggested that parking areas under buildings be considered part of the general parking area.

Adams reminded the Planning Commisssion that builders, under the proposed ordinance amendment could get around certain restrictions and still stay within the letter of the law, and that the Planning Commission would have more control if it permitted a less rigid phrasing of the law, allowing themselves an "escape clause". They would then be in a position to give a use permit granting certain concessions which would result in a more pleasing building.

Adams also brought up the or-

CARMEL BOXING TOURNEY OPENS FRIDAY

A boxing tournament given by the students of Carmel High will be presented Friday night at 8:00 in the CHS gym. Tickets may be purchased at the Carmel Sport Shop or at the door.

There will be different weight groups, starting at lightweight going up to heavyweight.

Boxers will use 16-ounce gloves and helmets if desired.

Director Bill Wakefield has been giving lessons to the students and hopes the event will have a good turnout of fans.

PADRES DROP ONE RUNNER TO JUNIPERO, LIVE OAK

The Carmel Padres made a pair of last inning comebacks, but fell short of Junipero and Live Oak by 8-7 and 4-3 scores respectively.

Junipero didn't score until the third when they picked up 4 rallies to take a 4-1 lead. The Padres knotted it at 4-4, but then the Cardinals scored three more in the fifth to hold a 7-4 lead.

The Padres again came back to tie it up as Joe Mason and Dennis Peavey smashed long drives to push across three runs.

Junipero scored once more in the last of the sixth, and held off the Padres as an interference play at the plate stopped a Carmel rally. With one out and a man on third, Dale Dawson put on the squeeze bunt, but his foot accidently touched the plate for an automatic out. The next man struck out to end the game.

In the Live Oak hassle, Carmel scored all of their runs in the seventh on singles by Walt Helm, Dennis Peavey, Andy Gray and Mal Burdis, which accounted for three runs.

Live Oak scored three runs in the fifth, on a hit and run play with the bases loaded and a runner scoring after getting in a run down. The Acorns scored once in the third on walks and errors.

CARMEL TRAVELS TO LITTLE SEVEN MEET

The Carmel track team will try to prove their ability as they travel to King City for the Little Seven track meet, with the winners treking to Berkeley for the NCS.

The Padres will bank on the efforts of shot putter Don Petty, pole vaulters Phil White and Phil Durbrow, Hampton Stewart in the high jump and 440, plus Bert Macahilig and Clyde Klaumann in the sprints.

Only two teams in the CCAL B Division were able to defeat Carmel this season, King City by 71-43, and Pacific Grove by one point 57-56.

Carmel fared well in the King City relays by scoring 7 points, while locals Monterey and Pacific Grove picked up only one and two points respectively.

PADRES FAVORED IN CCAL SWIM MEET

The Carmel swim team take their CCAL championship squad to the CCAL Finals tomorrow, with the winners vieing at the NCS in Berkeley.

The relay teams, both tops in the league, hope to sweep their events, and Les Laky, Bob Durbrow and Don Smith hope to whip opponents in their races.

In the Watsonville meet, Laky broke the school record in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 1:15.4. The relay team composed of Laky, Boone Morrison, Alan Eaker, and Bob Goldwater also broke the relay record with a time of 2:12.0.

Top competition will be given by Monterey and Watsonville, with many outstanding swimmers.

EX-GREAT OF FOOTBALL

One of the ex-greats of the pro football ranks, by the name of "Wee Willie" Wilkin, resides in the Carmel Highlands. The former Washington Redskin star tackle is one of the physical education instructors at Monterey High School. He is also assistant coach of the varsity football team.

"Wee Willie" first started his career in the year of 1933 while playing for St. Mary's College in Moraga, California.

In 1937 Wilkin started pro ball, as he played for Washington and became rookie of the year. Two years later he became a member of the All Pro team and stayed on it for two years.

Wilkin, who stands 6-4, weighed 305 pounds at one time in his career, but his best playing weight was about 240 pounds.

The big moment in "Wee Willie's" career was when he picked up a fumble and rambled 20 yards for a touchdown. Once while rushing a punter, Wilkin picked up a healthy 200-pound blocker and threw him into the air, blocking the punt and setting up the winning touchdown.

Wilkin also has credit for being the first to knock ex-Cleveland quarterback Otto Graham unconscious. Graham and Wilkin both charged a fumble, collided head on, and Graham took the bad bounce.

CARMEL MERCHANTS TAKE FOURTH STRAIGHT

Managers Paul Artellan and Don Sands of the Carmel Merchants have their squad on a four-game winning streak after defeating the Navy School 1-2, Seaside 4-1, Shirley's 4-2, and Marina 4-3.

Johnny DeAmaral and Paul Ricketson have shown up very good on the pitcher's mound so far. Walt Frey, Bill Conlan, Neno Aiello, and newcomer Pete Fisher have been playing some outstanding ball in the previous games for the Merchants.

Next game for the Merchant nine will be against Salinas at Salinas Friday night.

LOS ALTOS HUNT HORSE SHOW

The annual Los Altos Hunt Horse Show will be held on May 26 at 9:00 o'clock in the morning at the Play Pen, a 20-acre estate on Woodside Road, Woodside, belonging to Mrs. Eileen Galvin. It is equipped with three out-door rings — for show ring jumping, equitation riding, etc., and a mile long cross-country course. This show is to raise funds to cover yearly expenses and is open to all interested English riders. Entries close May 19 and should be sent to Horse Show Secretary, Mrs. Arthur M. Walton, 3757 Woodside Road, Woodside.

Last year's entry list contained 100 horsemen of Woodside, Atherton, Menlo Park, Los Altos, Mills College, Concord, Pebble Beach and the East Bay.

Spectators are welcome as the guests of Mrs. Galvin and the Hunt Committee. There will be informal observation from the hillside and lunch may be obtained on the grounds.

DOG SHOW MAY 26

Premium lists for the thirty-second annual All Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial to be held at Del Monte Lodge on May 26, are now in the mail. The popular event is held annually on the terrace of Del Monte Lodge and the eighteenth green of the famous Pebble Beach Golf Links, where some 1,000 dogs will be judged. All entries must be in the hands of the superintendent, Mrs. Bernice Behrendt, 470 38th Avenue, San Francisco 21, by May 9.

SPORTSMAN CLUB OFFICERS ELECTED

Last Tuesday, elections were held to choose new officers for the Carmel Sportsmen's Association Club. Elected were T. G. Tousey, president; John Tracy, vice president; Henry D. Newman, secretary; and John Mahoney, treasurer.

DOG TRAINING GIVEN BY KENNEL CLUB

On Sunday, May 5, the Kennel Club will give instructions on training and handling of dogs for dog shows at the Carmel High School gym. It will begin at 3:00 o'clock, and all of those who wish to enter their dogs in the Pebble Beach Dog Show are urged to attend.

These instructions will give the dog owners ideas on how to present the dog at the show. Children of all ages will receive lesssons in handling also.

MUSSEL QUARANTINE

The Monterey County Health Department has issued a quarantine prohibiting the gathering of mussels from the shoreline of California from May 1 to October 31, inclusive. The mussels during this period are subject to a poison and are consequently unfit for human consumption. If used for bait the containers should be marked, "For fish bait only."

NEW CURTAIN FOR SUNSET

After 17 years Sunset school auditorium will have a new curtain. It was chosen by Mrs. A. M. Allen, Mrs. Douglas McGregor, Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Mr. Joseph Broadman, and Mr. Orville Rogers. After looking at materials from three companies they selected a red boucle velvet, made by Hank and Heggens Company of Los Angeles.

The curtain should be up by the end of May.

"I Love Being A Writer's Daughter" Says "Disaster Kid"

By Cili Ware, Freshman

I think my father's life has been as interesting as any of the characters he has created. Born in 1902 in North Dakota, he always was interested in writing and dramatics and, when his family moved to Chicago, he had a job as a police reporter at 17. In one class play in which he played the part of rugged character, ship wrecked on an island, he brought down the house when, after struggling for half the play to light a fire by rubbing two sticks together, he lit a pipe with a match!

After flunking algebra nine times, Harlan Ware decided that high school was not the place for him. In May of his senior year he ran away from home with a friend of his and headed for Honduras. Getting off the freight train in New Orleans with not a cent in their pockets, they spent three horrible days without a thing to eat or a place to sleep. Finally Dad got a job on an afternoon paper to write feature stories.

A year and a half later Ralph Belemy, a high school pal, got him a job in a stock company traveling tent show touring the middle west. Always a writer at heart, he and Jim Prindle wrote a book called Rag Opera as a result.

After the closing of a show, New Toys, that ran 40 weeks, Dad took a job as public relations manager at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago so that he could eat. During the nine years he worked there he was always writing. After selling two stories he had enough money to get out of the city and move to California where he met and married my mother in 1935.

In 1936, Paramount employed him to write eight movies for three years. There he wrote the screen play for the first Jack Benny movie, Artists and Models. Next came College Holiday with George Burns, Gracie Allen and Jack Benny. While he was writing Yours for the Asking with Ida Lupino, my sister arrived to make the picture complete. It added up to eight movies in three years with the best in the business.

The original title of one Saturday Evening Post serial was All the King's Men. I guess they like to feel creative at the office because they wired dad for permission to change it to Too Young to Know. Since this wasn't the first time this had happened dad wired back Too Old to Care!

Next Dad turned to radio with a show of his own called The Bartons. The day I was born they informed him that the show no longer had a sponsor and so it would no longer be on the air. Just because of this I was given the unfair term of "Disaster Kid!"

Luckily it turned out for the best because Caralton Morse asked him to write the scripts for One Man's Family in 1945, when it was a once a week, half an hour show. Somehow during this time The Wonderful Mrs. Ingram got written.

When I get old and grey I think I'll remember the four years it took Dad to write Come Fill the Cup (1948-1952) more than any other period as a writer's daughter. I'll never forget the evenings when he'd drag himself the 200 yards from the office into the house after writing scripts for One Man's Family, get something to eat and drag himself back and work on the book at night. This got so bad that he took a year off and wrote eight short stories to tide us over. Warner Brothers had bought it as a movie before it sold as a book and so near the end he was working against a deadline.

During the filming of The Cup, Dad became good friends with James Cagney who was starring in it. Knowing this man has been one of the most wonderful parts of my life.

Dad and my uncle, Leon Ware, collaborated on and off for ten years on a play called The Man on a Stick. In 1947 it was put on by the dramatic group at the University of Redlands. Then last summer when my mother was playing in the Golden Bough Circle, Bernard Szold, a visiting director from Victoria, Texas, was told about the play and decided to do it in Texas. It seems it was such a success that the Golden Bough is doing it this summer as the big show of the year!

My father writes for three main reasons. He writes what he wants to write, says what he wants to say, and hopes he can make a living at it. He believes a writer is not a really good one unless he can compete in nearly all fields successfully.

I love being a writer's daughter and I can't really imagine him in any other profession. It has advantages such as living where you want to live, being your own bos and meeting and knowing interesting people. One thing that some people would shy away from is the brain-cracking work of it and the fact that if you can't make ends meet you have no one to blame but yourself and Uncle Sam!

S. A. Salvage Drive On This Week Pickups Monday

The annual Salvation Army Salvage Week started Monday, and will continue to the end of this week.

Fred J. Mylar, chairman of the Salvation Army extension services in Carmel, said, "This is a good opportunity for house-cleaning, house wives to dispose of unwanted items for a worthy cause."

A Salvation Army truck will pick up your throw-aways at the end of the drive. The telephone number to call for the truck is FRontier 2-2531. These articles will be reconditioned by those who seek assistance of the Salvation Army in problems such as age, physical handicaps, and by parolees. The reconditioned products are sold at Salvation Army thrift shops.

It's Good To Be Small

BY MIKE BLANTON, SOPH.

Just recently coming from one of Los Angeles' over-crowded high schools, I had a chance to compare first-hand the high school at Carmel with those in the state's largest metropolis.

Carmel High School had, at the last count, 406 enrolled students. This in itself is phenomenal, for schools in the San Fernando Valley, with grades 10 through 12 (rather than Carmel's 9-12) run anywhere from 1300 (Canoga Park) to 6000 (Van Nuys High). It is highly improbable that a school of such large dimensions would be able to provide the feeling of unity between the faculty and students, and between the students themselves, that is apparent to the observers of Carmel High.

Instead of the personal guidance of the principal, the Los Angeles high school student is counselled by one of 12 or so counsellors, alloted to him on the basis of impersonal classification . . . . this is not condemned, because it is necessary, but inhabitants of Carmel would be wise to keep it in mind.

Among a large number of teachers that runs somewhere into the hundreds, the Los Angeles student is only able to understand the co-operative relationships of four or five . . . .at first this may not seem very important, but on closer consideration it will be seen that a pupil could easily get a lost feeling in a crowd like this: personal student leadership rarely emerges, and when it does, its impact is felt only obscurely by the majority of the student body.

In a small school like Carmel High, each member of the school is able to contribute something to the total personality of the organization . . . . to develop his own personality to a larger extent, and learn to become a part of a group, with others who know him and whom he knows.

I'll Look For You

BY ELI IVERSEN, SENIOR

Now that my year at Carmel is almost over, I wish to take this opportunity to express my deep and sincere gratitude to the townspeople. You have done so much to make my stay a very pleasant and happy one. When I return to Norway, I shall endeavor to effect an even better understanding between "little Norway" and the "land of opportunity". I was told and I read about America being the land of opportunity back in Norway, but I never quite believed it. I acquired this idea through studying American history which is required in school, and through reading books and articles, and through seeing movies. Now that I have been here almost a year and have gotten to know you and have seen your way of life, I fully believe in this statement.

I know I was very fortunate to come to Carmel, (maybe I was the luckiest one of all the 770 exchange students) because wherever I have been this year people have said to me, "Oh, you lucky girl, Carmel is the most beautiful place in the United States." And I agree, not only is it beautiful here, but it reminds me so much of my own home.

From Carmel I shall bring with me a memory of a charming little town by the Pacific. I shall tell my own classmates about the friendly and warm-hearted people here. Also I shall report on your own children whom I have been around, and believe me it will be only the very best. Once again I want to express my thanks to all of you who have contributed in making my year so happy and full of excitement.

Velkommen til Norge Allesammen—this is a Norwegian sentence meaning that you all are very welcome to come to Norway. I'll look for you there.

FIRST VOICE:

I am the new-born child;
I am not concerned with all of this.
It passes all around my outer self,
But never plunges into the sea of my Soul.

I emit a cry,
and mountains bow their utmost crowns
to serve my whim.

I whisper softly,
and giants pound on the soil,
with servile looks toward me.

I look out of this building with the blind windows . . .
I am caught on the fastest of rivers,
speeding along at an unknown rate . . .
I see trees, sky, sea, river:
Say river, say trees—feel the honey-sound upon the lips:
I cannot speak . . . I have no voice but that of thought . . .
Yet I am a Man to myself.

I have dim memories, soft re-awakenings of lives before this,
of men and women that I am not but yet am;
seldom do I return from the Darkness in Sleep.
See! I have returned now . . . there is none to stop me:
Already I am a Man to myself.

The scent of Spring comes lightly,
Borne on the playful breeze.

As languid buds uncurl;
The feel of Spring is holy:
New life, new hopes unfurl.

Shallow And Mixed Up?

BY LESLIE GEYER AND HAZEL TICE, SENIORS

Most people feel that jazz is shallow and mixed-up, but this is merely because they don't try to understand it. They listen to it once and then dismiss it from their minds.

Jazz is one of the oldest forms of modern artistic expression. It started in Basin Street with, as the saying goes, "the breeze in the trees." From this beginning was added a gradually flowing melody, which expressed the emotions of the thought. It started, and has endured, simply as an emotional expression.

Contemporary jazz is divided into two distinct divisions, one individually west-coast, and the other more eastern in form. West-coast jazz is truly an expression of the artist's conveying any sudden thoughts that can be immediately brought into the piece and adding to it. Eastern jazz follows the melody more strictly, with few of the sudden interrupting interpretations by an individual performer that is so apparent in its western counterpart.

Carmel has been very fortunate in having Jimmy Lyons on the peninsula as one of the foremost jazz promoters and authorities in the country. Through his efforts, the peninsula has welcomed many renowned artists of the jazz world. A few of these include Stan Kenton, Milt Bernhart, Oscar Peterson, Red Mitchell, Russ Freeman, Chuck Thompson, Errol Garner, Ella Fitzgeralld, Bud Shank, Conti Condolli, and Dave Brubeck.

Carmel Youth Follies Review

BY HAZEL TICE, SENIOR

The theme of the Eighth Annual Youth Follies, held in the Sunset Auditorium, April 26 and 27, was the Gay 20s. The number that corresponded with this was A Day at the Seashore which was a mixed chorus line of girls and boys dressed in old-time bathing suits. This was considered a top number, judging from the applause.

From a general concensus of opinion, Friday night seemed to have been the better performance, even though there was on that night considerably more back-stage confusion than on Saturday. The performers felt that they had a more appreciative audience on Friday night, also.

The acts that really "brought down the house" for the comedy numbers were: Gary Appleton and Andy Gray doing a pantomime from John and Marsha, the boys' Can-Can Line and the Sack Dancers, imitating beings from another world. On the more serious side, The Banana Boat Song, sung by George Blanks, Cim Conway, and Dale Dawson, and Many A New Day, sung by Irene Fernandez, displayed some wonderful talent.

The dance band (called The Down Beats) played Sentimental Journey and After You've Gone. The band was dominated by the saxophones, giving it a professional sound.

Bert's Combo was highly approved of as far as the audience was concerned. The combo consisted of John Styles with his trombone, Kate Fry at the piano, David Tobiasen playing the bass, Steve Crouch on the trumpet, and, Bert Macahilig at the drums.

Some outstanding numbers were:

Sandy Miyamoto doing a baton dance; the Suicide Squad, which displayed excellent coordination in tumbling, and a satire on a fashion show, narrated by Linda Langshaw.

Some piano solos were Katie Fry and Judy Paplow, who was later accompanied by Bert Macahilig at the drums.

Some song-and-dance solos were Denise Chapman doing a Hawaiian dance, Donna Sands with a ballet solo, Laurel Lee Swager singing Red Sails in the Sunset, Gay Morris doing an interpretive dance, Judy Sargent singing songs from The King and I, Tom Yale singing and

Novelist Gann With Fantasy In His Past Watches The Stars

By Polly Gann, Sophomore

The world knows Ernest K. Gann as the writer of such novels, The High and the Mighty, Soldier of Fortune, and his latest Twilight for the Gods. Few people though have seen the scripts he has never published. They are delightful and sophisticated stories, written when he was still a very young man. The Little People deals with the gremlins in the sky that make snow, fog, and smog. It starts out with a letter to us down here on earth.

"Dear people down there . . . "The situation here has become intolerable. I view the future with alarm. I am exasperated. I am worn out. I must . . . .

The story continues at a fast rate and ends with a plea by the main character to have us stop those "iron birds" from disturbing J.B.'s beautiful clouds.

Another interesting feature of the story is the delightful drawings. Mr. Gann has always loved to draw and the drawings in the Little People show great talent.

At the present Mr. Gann is deep in Astronomy. A giant telescope now decorates his front porch and is almost in constant use. He has used his artistic talent to advantage in this field also. He takes a sharp instrument and a black piece of art paper and does what the artist calls scratch board. Whirling comets and people from other worlds are his theme at the moment.

Mr. Gann's love of isolation has led him to another project. He plans to build a little Irish cottage. When it is finished he will use it as his office and studio. At the moment he creates in the family green house, which was a twentieth anniversary present, now converted to a make-shift office, It contains a large picnic table where he works and puts his utensils. In the corner is an old fashion pot belly stove that supplies his heat. The rest of the room holds his art materials and painting, including a street scene in Hong Kong, an island in the Pacific and a ship becalmed.

Mr. Gann goes to work at 8:00 o'clock in the morning after breakfast with his wife, and stays there until 1:00 o'clock when he comes out like a shot. After lunch with his wife and secretary, the afternoon is spent playing tennis or some form of exercise. At about 5:30 o'clock the whole family gathers in the kitchen and talks over the day while Mrs. Gann cooks the dinner. Dinner is a family meal and only occasionally do close friends come. After dinner, while his son and daughter do the dishes, Mr. and Mrs. Gann retire to the living room where they finish their coffee.

At the moment Mr. Gann is taking a rest before he does the final draft for the screen play, Twilight for the Gods. Towards the end of August he will board a plane for the islands where Paramount plans to film Twilight for the Gods.

Plans after the movie is finished are still forming in his mind.

His family has a project though. They are working on him to have The Little People published and a couple of other manuscripts yellowed by age.

A Cartoonist Should Draw Well First Says Eldon Dedini

By Laurel Martin, Junior

It's hard to believe that out of the quiet little town of King City a nationally-known personage has emerged, but that is where Eldon Dedini was born and raised. After high school in his home town, he majored in art at Hartnell, although his nose was most likely buried in funny books more than da Vinci or Degas. Dedini began being interested in cartooning in high school, and this interest gradually grew until, in later life, he achieved success as an accomplished cartoonist. He urges future cartoonists to take a regular art course and then learn on their own to cartoon, since there are no real schools of cartooning. To cartoon, he says, you should be able to draw well first.

After college and a fine arts course at Chouinard, Dedini laid aside his funny books and ventured forth into Hollywood to find a job; this turned out to be drafting and designing at Universal Studios.

About this time, he found what almost every artist loves having—a full-time model. Shortly after his marriage, he worked for two years at Disney Studios in the story department.

All this time during his career years and a part of his schooling, he had been sending cartoons to Esquire magazine, and after four years, he finally received his first notice of the acceptance of a cartoon. After his two years at Disney Studios, Esquire magazine sought him, and Dedini went to greener pastures, with a fresh contract under his arm.

The present peak of his career was attained when he accepted a contract with the New Yorker magazine. Right now, his clever cartoons appear in Esquire, the New Yorker, and Sports Illustrated. "I'll never retire," he declared emphatically, "no one should retire!"

For a hobby, he and three of his friends bottle many different wines that they find, and store their prizes in their own cellar.

In his working hours, which run vaguely from 8:00 to 5:00 o'clock, he creates his cartoons in a quiet, peaceful atmosphere, in a comfortable, modern home just south of Carmel High School. His living room, brightly decorated with Italian travel posters, overlooks Carmel Valley, the Mission, and Point Lobos. The feeling in the air of his flowery patio with its extensive view, is like Dedini himself, one of completeness, contentment and peace.

Hungarian Relief Concert May 11, Picnic Next Day

A concert and picnic will be staged May 11 and 12 for the benefit of Hungarian Refugees living on the peninsula.

May 12 is the date for the picnic, which will include Hungarian food, wine, games for both children and adults, exhibition folk dancing, and other planned events.

The evening before, May 11, the concert will be presented at the Pacific Grove High School, beginning at 8:00, it will feature the following: Monterey Language School Russian Choir, Mr. Desire Ligeti, San Francisco Opera Company bass-baritone; Mr. Wade Parks, pianist; Eva Cserhalmi, Budapest Opera Company, and other international artists.

Both the concert and picnic are under the direction of the Relief and Resettlement Committee. Dr. Z. Vasary and Paul H. Madarasz, instructors at the language school, head the committee.

The Responsibility Of A Writer's Child Is No Light Matter

By Lacy Williams, Junior

My mother's writing career began with the publication of two novels Here Are My Children and Bright is the Morning. These were not so remarkable for their success, but youthfulness of their author, who was 22 and 23.

During the period that my older brother and sister were young, my mother was too busy domestically to write much. But after the birth of her third child (me), she returned to writing with a bang, selling regularly to magazines. She now writes for almost all the "slicks."

Two things in 1956 turned her back to novel writing. One was that several magazines folded that year (due to television competition). The other was that some book publishers became interested in her work, and encouraged her to start another novel. This she did. The publishers seem very enthusiastic, and the novel will be published in the fall. The tentative title is The Marriage.

What is it like to be the daughter of an author? Well, I'll tell you. I can never be sure that any little thing I say won't be pounced upon and appear in her next story. (You can imagine how I have to censor my conversation around her quite carefully). So, indirectly I'm responsible for any teen-age material, the current fads and vocabulary, that may appear in the Mona Williams' stories.

About four days a week, my mother is a normal housewife and parent, but the other three days she shuts herself in her room with sharp pencils, a writing pad, and a typewriter. She emerges from behind her closed door only for occasional cups of coffee. Also, though she says she's not to be disturbed, she always appears bright-eyed when the telephone rings. If there's one thing I've learned about writers, it's that they're terribly afraid of missing something.

Maybe this sounds as if I were making fun of the writing profession. I really don't mean to—a writer's business is to see the view point of all ages and all kinds of people, and this can make a very understanding mother.

Turkey For Suzann France For Bob On AFS Summer

Turkey, anyone? Suzann Pilot, of Carmel High School, will have two months of it this summer.

Chosen as American Field Service students, Suzann Pilot and Bob McCormick, also of Carmel each will be sent to a foreign country to spend the summer.

On June 16, Bob and Suzann will board a plane bound for New York City. They will see the sights for about a day, then leave for Montreal, Canada, where after two days of Field Service planned tours, they will board a boat headed for Paris. The trip, taking ten days, will be especially for AFS students from all parts of the United States. All of the AFS representatives will spend two days in Paris. Then they will separate to go to their various assigned countries, generally by train.

Although she does not know the town in which she will stay, Suzann knows that it will be somewhere in Turkey. Bob will be living in some town in France. During their two months' stay, Bob and Suzann will live with families from these countries. Bob has had two years of French at Carmel High and Suzann hopes she'll live with an English-speaking family.

During their stay with their "temporary parents," Sue and Bob each will live as one of the family, helping around the house, eating the customary foods and fitting into the strange routines as best they can.

After these two months, the students will again meet in Paris to board the boat for the ten-day trip back to New York.

Sunset Eighth Grade Interviews

Interview with Dr. Farley

Seven years ago, Dr. Fred L. Farley, a professor of Greek and Latin at College of Pacific, and his wife bought the old Lincoln Steffens home dreaming and planning of the day when he could retire and come to Carmel to live. For five years he and his wife Marie, also a teacher, came here for vacations until he retired and could live here permanently.

Dr. Farley chose Carmel to settle in because he always liked a small town. Although he has been all over Europe and Greece he still likes Carmel.

Professor Farley took Greek and Latin in high school and later, when he enrolled in Alvian College in Michigan, he majored in it.

Dr. Farley liked books and reading. He wanted to do something useful in life so he turned to teaching. He attained his Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1924 at Stanford.

Dr. Farley has discovered a new and interesting hobby called "Double-Crostic." He also likes Scrabble and gardening.

Retired is just a word to Fred Farley who is very energetic and who never walks but runs. He teaches Latin and Greek to an adult night class and writes articles for various magazines.

Interview with Ted Konrad

Recently, I had the pleasure of interviewing Ted Konrad who owns Konrad's Creamery. He has owned it for 16 years and really enjoys his work. He said that there is quite a bit of work connected with running a creamery, but it is very interesting. He does not have any complaints about the kids who go there.

Mr. Konrad started in the dairy business and later decided to go into business for himself, he says that the creamery business and the dairy business are pretty much the same.

When asked if he would rather have another job, he said that he hadn't given it much thought.

Mr. Konrad indicated that later on he might retire and let one of his sons continue the business, and he is hoping that they will.

Mr. Konrad has lived in Carmel for 16 years, and likes it very much. He originally came from Lodi, California.

Mr. Konrad loves sports and is especially found of baseball. He is a Yankee fan and he also likes the San Francisco Seals.

Interview with Gus Arriola

Gus Arriola, the cartoonist and writer of the popular comic strip Gordo, became aware of his talent in cartooning at the age of 14.

He was cartoonist at MGM from 1938-1941. While there he was working on the Tom and Jerry cartoons.

In 1941 he first published Gordo. It was published for only eight months, however, as he was drafted into the United States Army and served in the Air Force. While in the service he drew animations of bomb sights and machine guns. He served in the Air Force until 1946, then began his comic strip Gordo. Gordo is published in 126 newspapers in the United States, Mexico, Hawaii, and Cuba. It takes Mr. Arriola about two and a half hours on one comic strip. He has his cartoon schedule set up to six weeks ahead, and Sunday Color section up to eight weeks ahead. He colors his own Sunday Color strip and sends it to the United Feature Syndicate. From there it is sent to the newspapers.

Gus Arriola has won the Distinguished Artist Award for 1957, which was sponsored by the Artists Club of San Francisco.

Grahams New Owners Of Peter Pan Lodge

Peter Pan Lodge now has new owners. Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Graham just acquired the lodge from the estate of Caroline Pickit. The lodge has been in existence for 30 years.

It is a small, intimate hotel. The Grahams are going to try to preserve its old, traditional atmosphere.

The lodge, nestled high on the side of the hill, has a grand view and good service. Recently they have started serving luncheon and dinner by reservation to outside guests, with excellent results.

The Grahams have two children, Peter and Jeff. Peter is 18 months old and Jeff, eight years old.

"They'll Do It Every Time" Started With Hole On Comic Page

By Polly Gann, Sophomore

Jimmy Hatlo, the famous artist of such cartoons as, They'll Do It Every Time and Little Iodine, was born in Providence, Rhode Island, 1898. When he was a year old his family moved to Los Angeles, where he grew up. His father became a headline setter on the Los Angeles Times. Hatlo was a skinny and sometimes sickly youngster. He desperately wanted to be as tall as his father who stood six feet three inches tall. He devoted many hours to stretching exercises. It didn't work. Today he stands only five feet eight inches.

His high school life was short but spectacular. During his freshman year the elective system was introduced. A year later, the principal checking upon the student's selections found that Jimmy had attended only those classes which pertained to art. Given the opportunity of taking his first year over again or quitting, Jimmy quit.

He took a job as a printer's devil at the Times, earning ten dollars a week. In 1917 he gave up his $22-a-week job to become an apprentice linotypist in the art department at only $9.00 a week. His job consisted of retouching the photographs and drawing curlecue vignette borders for news pictures, popular in that day. Cartoonists on the paper were constantly pestered by Hatlo for their criticism of his cartoons which he did in his spare time. Their criticisms were so good that during the critical year of 1918 some of Hatlo's vengeful thrusts at Kaiser Wilhelm were published as editorial cartoons on the front page.

He tried to enlist, but the Army rejected him because he had a bad case of astigmatism. In 1918, when the draft was lowered to 18, Hatlo was accepted by the Army. At special request he was assigned to aviation. While awaiting shipment to Kelly Field, Texas, he contracted influenza. He was taken to the hospital, in a coma and when he woke up he learned the war was over. He returned to the Times but after a while gave up cartooning (he thought for ever) in favor of publicity work. He drew up advertising layouts for automobile dealers. After great success he accepted a job on the San Francisco Bulletin, working on the automobile section.

His return to art surprised himself as much as his colleagues. It was in 1925 after the defeat of the University of California's Wonder Team by the Olympic Club. California had gone unbeaten for five seasons, and its defeat shocked the football world, of which Hatlo was a member. He picked up his pen and drew a cartoon that showed the disaster. He slipped it on the sports editor's desk and when the editor came upon it he gave it a full page spread. Hatlo was quickly raised to the editorial side. He was told to do editorial cartoons for the front page. He soon tired of it, though, and preferred to do sports and humor. In 1928, in an emergency, he was called on to fill a gaping rectangle left in the Call's comic page. Hatlo was angry at the order because he was already over-worked. But he drew up a cartoon and named it, They'll Do It Every Time.

The following years had their ups and downs. For a few years after achieving syndication Hatlo continued his sports cartooning for the Call-Bulletin. While waiting for They'll Do It Every Time to prove itself, Hatlo married Eleanor Dollard. The marriage took place at St. John's Chapel of the Wayside in Del Monte near Carmel. It was 1939 before he gave up his sports cartooning. In 1945 he bought a small house in Carmel. Today he lives in Pebble Beach with his wife and young son. His cartoons appear in 500 daily papers and over 100 Sunday newspapers. From the boy who quit school at 15 Jimmy Hatlo has steadily climbed to the position of one of the best cartoonists in the nation.

playing his guitar, and finally, a Hungarian student from Monterey College, also singing and playing a guitar.

Linda Paplow played a violin solo, accompanied by her sister, Judy, at the piano.

Other acts in the show were the Girls' Can-Can, the Boys' Choir, a dance number entitled Blue Violins, Mike Bein doing a satire on surgery, Janie Oakley, portrayed by Jana Miles, Girls' Quintet singing Surrey With the Fringe on Top, Wendy Wiegman and Veronica Taylor doing a dance scene from The Nutcracker Suite, a mixed chorus line, dancing to For Me and My Gal, and the closing number for the Follies, The Banana Boat Chorus Line.

The whole show was MC'd by Jerry and Jon Stuefloten, Mike Burns, and John Morse.

Many people agreed that this year's Youth Follies were the best yet. I feel that this is because so much time and effort were put into it, and also because it ran much more smoothly than ever before.

Bonny and Jack Giles, who were the backbone of the whole show, took the costumes back to Los Angeles the day after the last performance.

Cat And Dog Show Saturday At Sunset

Girl Scout troup 47 is having a community cat and dog show Saturday afternoon for the benefit of Doctor Albert Schweitzer, to whom they will send the proceeds.

The cat show starts at 1:00 o'clock and the dog show at 2:00, both at the Sunset School playfield.

There will be cash prizes and ribbons for winners. There are to be six divisions for dogs and five for cats.

The contest rules are only that all pets must be on a leash, and must be shown by children.

All persons are invited. The affair is strictly amateur, with no pedigree requirements for show animals.

Mr. and Mrs. Gann Leave on Trip

Mr. and Mrs. George K. Gann of Pebble Beach leave on the new ship Mariposa for a South Seas cruise May 11. They will first visit Los Angeles and from there sail on to Hawaii. Tahiti will be their next stop and then New Zealand. The continent of Australia will be included in their tour and also the Fiji Islands. The Mariposa will dock on June 24 in San Francisco.

The "whole Gann Clan" will go up to San Francisco to see them off. There will be a bon voyage dinner party the night before the sailing.

Mr. and Mrs. Gann have traveled extensively throughout the world in the last few years, but this will be their first trip to New Zealand and Australia.

Mrs. Bogert's Trip Abroad

Mrs. Alice Bogert left Carmel Tuesday evening for a month and a half tour of Northern Europe. She was to take a plane from Los Angeles to New York, but it was grounded, so a message directing her to San Francisco was hurried to her after her departure. On May 3, she arrives in London, and then takes the Fairytale Tour to Paris, Copenhagen, and back to London. Another tour will follow, taking her to southern England, Edinburgh, to the Scottish Highlands, and Glasgow. From Glasgow she will fly to Boston about June 15.

Engagement Announced

This week Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Bucksten of West Los Angeles announced the engagement of their daughter Joyce to Stanley Cohon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cohon of Pebble Beach. Miss Bucksten is a noted pianist in Los Angeles. She attended Los Angeles City College, Santa Monica City College and UCLA.

She has also studied music in Vienna and Salzburg. Joyce is affiliated with the Manuscript Club, the Music Teachers' Association and is president of the Fairyland Club of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Mr. Cohon is now a senior at UCLA where he is studying radio and television production. The couple plan to be married June 9 in Los Angeles and will reside there until Stanley receives his degree this fall.

Students Accepted

Seniors at Carmel High School are receiving their letters of acceptance from the different colleges in the country: Nancy McKay, Tony White, Paul Prince, and Bill Wallace received their letters from Stanford last week. Mills College in Oakland has taken Linda Teague, and Nancy McKay. Luraine Dearing has heard from Pomona and Barbara Johnson received a letter from Whitaker. Stevie Craviotto and Hazel Tice will live in the new hall at the beautiful University of California campus in Santa Barbara next year.

Tension among the senior class members is growing as more and more letters are coming through the mail.

Julie Goes to Europe

Miss Juliana Dilbeck, Carmel resident and Monterey school teacher, is planning a year's trip to Europe. Her transitory residence will be somewhere in Germany—the exact town is not yet known. Julie will be working for the American government, teaching American children whose parents are stationed in Germany with the Army. Besides teaching during her regular hours, Julie is at present working at Nepenthe during her weekends and spare moments. She will continue her Nepenthe job up to the first of August at which time she will journey to New York and set sail.

Soldiers Need Cookies

Carmel Red Cross has to provide 100 dozen cookies for Fort Ord, U. S. Army Hospital every Tuesday throughout the month of May. These cookies supply refreshments for patients' birthday parties, special entertainments and the daily coffee hour in the Red Cross recreation lounge. Homemade cookies are a big hit with the patients—for what can have so much appeal to a hospitalized soldier as cookies like mother used to make.

Please bring your homemade cookies to the Carmel Chapter, Eighth and Dolores Streets, Tuesday mornings before 12:00 o'clock noon.

Irish Film for Woman's Club

The last general meeting of Carmel Woman's Club this club year will be held on Monday afternoon in the clubhouse, at 2:00 o'clock. Mrs. Carl E. Menneken, vice-president and program chairman, will have charge of the meeting, and will introduce the speaker. Tea will be served after the showing of the film Ireland, with Mrs. George K. Meyer hospitality chairman in charge. Mrs. Weldon H. McBee and Mrs. Henry Raymond, Jr. will pour, and Mrs. Arthur Bruehl will arrange flowers.

Jnoy Monaghan's film might well be titled Ireland As Is for it is just that. He knows Ireland from the center to the sea and his motion picture and entertaining narration manifest his enormous love of the country, its history, its folk lore, its humor and song and, above all, its people. He was born in America, enlisted in the Army after Pearl Harbor, and was mustered out a captain, having seen duty in Europe. He has been script-writer, actor and production assistant in England and Hollywood, and since 1950 has been "on his own."

Italian Students to Come Here

The Carmel Art Institute under the direction of John Cunningham has just received news, through the American Embassy in Naples, that the Italian government has issued a special permit to the institute allowing students from Italy to come to Carmel to study art. This permit is a very great honor to the institute as very few such permits are issued by foreign governments.

Another drop of paint on the institute's palette formulates from the fact that of the 40 paintings on exhibition at the Carmel Art Gallery during this last month, 18 were products of the institute.

Carmel High School's Prom

On May 18 the annual Junior-Senior Prom will be held. Mike Raggett, Pat Elston, Joan Engle, Bob McCormick, and Laurel Martin and their committees are working hard to make it a big success. Decorations will include poplar trees with light filtering through the branches, and a large bridge over a quaint rocky pond. David Rose's band will supply the dance music. The theme of the dance is Moonglow taken from the movie Picnic.

Margaret Lial's Trip to Europe

Miss Margaret Lial left two months ago on a trip through Spain, France, and Switzerland. She sailed on an Italian liner with her friend Mrs. David Ford and her four children.

Although Miss Lial liked Switzerland best for scenery she enjoyed the music and dancing of Spain and Portugal.

One of her most enjoyable moments was seeing the Spanish dancer Pilillar Lopez and her dance troupe. The only distressing part of her trip was when she was on a ship en route for Portugal and one of Mrs. Ford's children almost died of pneumonia. They arrived in port just in time to save his life.

The Ford family stayed in Switzerland planning to make it their permanent home.

Back home in Carmel, Miss Lial says "Home base is my favorite port."

Travel Talk at Town House

Mrs. Mabel Grey Gehring will be the speaker at Town House on Wednesday afternoon. She is a versatile and much traveled person who might choose her topic from a rich variety of experience. Born in Glasgow, a member of the Stuart clan, she lived in Glasgow, Paisley, and other west coast towns until her marriage to an American. During World War II she made her home in Lakewood, Ohio, where she threw herself with characteristic energy into war work in Cleveland. Especially interested in raising money for canteens and entertainments for the service men, she promoted a highly successful Attic Shop for the sale of unused treasures contributed by many people from their attic collections. On next Wednesday, however, she will speak from her travel experiences on women in other lands. There will be opportunity for questions, and tea will be served.

George D. Young, local artist, will exhibit his oil paintings at Town House during the month of May. Mr. Young, a retired teacher from the Oakland schools, is a student of Abel, Warshawsky. His original dioramas will also be hung. The exhibit will open May 7 with a tea, from 3:30 to 4:30 o'clock.

Dr. Howard E. Clark in L. A.

Last Saturday Dr. Howard Clark left his home in Carmel to attend the annual State Medical Convention in Los Angeles. During his visit in Los Angeles Dr. Clark stayed at the Ambassador Hotel. He said that he was entertained by a pair of mocking birds outside the window of his hotel room. Dr. Clark came home last evening from his very enjoyable trip.

Bonnie Jean Born

On April 26 a baby girl, Bonnie Jean, was born to Mr. and Mrs. James P. Ryan of Carmel. She weighed two pounds, seven ounces. Bonnie is the second child in the Ryan family; her sister Kathy is two years old. Mr. Ryan is a painter foreman and the family moved to Carmel in the latter part of January.

rent for the space the vending equipment occupies. The machine owners would pay the license fee, not the merchants. The merchants who owned their own machines are relatively few and their machines would not be taxed since they would be paying taxes on gross sales for their entire establishment.

Some of the council seemed to favor the old system rather than to raise the fee as in the proposed ordinance.

Another subject raised by Mayor Lyon was that of the League of California Cities, who sent to Carmel a list of proposed legislative bills for the council to support or oppose.

Councilman Whitaker believed that this should be referred to a committee while Councilman Patnude said, "If they (the proposed bills sent by the league) are so important, they ought to deserve a special meeting." It was decided that they would also be discussed at an adjourned meeting at 5:00 o'clock today.

One bill the league recommends that the cities oppose is a proposed mandatory county collection of taxes. Mr. Rose remarked of this, "The league feels that anything which tends to reduce the autonomy of independent cities ought to be opposed."

No More Blank Walls Adams' Suggestion To Carmel Planners

dinance phrase that states "The square feet of each dwelling unit shall not exceed 600 square feet per 1,000 square feet of land." He asked if the commission could give a reason for this ordinance as he did not feel it was worded correctly. George Willox, chairman of the commission, said that the prime reason for this ordinance was to keep down population density in Carmel.

Adams repeated these matters would be taken up at the next meeting of the council and he hoped the commission would come to a decision before then.

CYPRESS POINT INVITATIONAL AND HUNTER TRIALS AT PEBBLE BEACH

On the schedule at Pebble Beach this weekend are the Cypress Point Invitational Golf Tournament and the Pebble Beach Hunter Trials.

The tournament is played at Cypress Point Saturday and Sunday, 18 holes each day.

The Hunter Trials will also get underway Friday. Local entries include: Alexandria Christin, Mrs. Phillip S. Davies, Mrs. Shreve M. Archer, Jr., Jeanne Menken, Richard D .Collins, Susan Osborne, Camille Stahl, David Bates, Virginia von Hasseln, Ernest Simard.

Officials are Colonel Charles Christin, announcer; James M. R. Glaser, ringmaster; Stanley Cummings, chief clerk; Jack Cowan, paddock steward; Dr. Hartley Dewey, timer, and R. D. Collins, manager.

The presiding Dressage and 3-Phase Judge will be Count Georg de Raoldes of Santa Barbara. Hunter Judge will be a retired Master of Fox Hounds, George Bailey of Redlands.

In addition to these two events, the weekend will also include a Bohemian Club outing and golf tournament at Pebble Beach.

Help for Children of Migrants

A moving picture, A Desk for Billie, showing the needs of migrant children and the effort to help one little girl among migrant families to find a place in school and a sense of belonging in a community is the feature of the program for the United Church Women at the Church of the Wayfarer on Friday afternoon, May 3. This is the traditional fellowship program of the organization, which begins with a worship service at 11:30. A soprano solo by Mrs. Arthur Lindvall will be part of the morning program.

Lunch, in place of the May breakfast of past years, will be served at 12:30 in the church fellowship room by a group of Wayfarer women under direction of Mrs. John R. Christie. Reservations must be made not later than April 30 at the church, telephone MA 4-3550. Reports and necessary business will be attended to at the lunch tables.

At 1:30 the afternoon meeting will open with devotions by the Reverend Leonard Weston of the Assembly of God Church in Pacific Grove. The moving picture is obtained by Mrs. F. J. Bohrman of Pacific Grove, chairman for the program, through the courtesy of the Robert Down School of that city. Discussion of the problems suggested by the film will follow, and it is hoped that the Reverend Douglas Still of the new regional office for migrant needs in Fresno, will be present to answer questions. As previously announced, the leaders hope that donations of materials for the activities of children in migrant workers' camps this summer — toys, tools for crafts, crayons, paper, toiletries— will be brought to the meeting to promote this important social work.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How sin and suffering are destroyed through spiritual understanding of Christ, Truth, will be explained at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled Everlasting Punishment will include the following from Lamentations (3:39-41:): Wherefore doth a living man complain, a man for the punishment of his sins? Let us search and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord. Let us lift up our heart with our hands unto God in the heavens.

Correlative selections to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (391:13) It is error to suffer for aught but your own sins. Christ, or Truth, will destroy all other supposed suffering, and real suffering for your own sins will cease in proportion ass the sin ceases.

First Stamp Exhibit Open To Public At USO Sunday

At a recent meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club, held in the Carmel High School, President John R. Wright gave the address of John J. Smith, Ferndale and Emerson Streets, Philadelphia 11, where a brochure History of United Nations Air Mail Society may be obtained for a dollar.

Colonel Wright called on E. R. Blankenship to speak on the Stamp Exhibit which will be held in the USO, Monterey, on Sunday from 10:00 o'clock in the morning until 6:00 o'clock in the evening under the auspices of the Monterey Stamp Club.

Blankenship announced that this is the first stamp exhibit to be held on the Monterey Peninsula. There will be 80 frames of stamps, insured for $1,000 a day. Dealers from San Jose and local cities will conduct three "Bourse" tables for stamp collectors' materials.

Among the most notable exhibits will be ten frames of Peter Ferrante's famous ship stamps; Civil War and US Revenues belonging to the collection of General Emory S. Adams. Frank DiMaggio will exhibit 11 framess of Trieste, Italian stamps.

Door prizes will be awarded periodically. Officers and men from Fort Ord will exhibit various collections.

This exhibit has stirred up much interest as it will be a rare treat for the public as well as philatelists. There is no admission charge.

The next meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club will be an auction to be held in the Carmel High School on Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Edith Stellman

Mrs. Edith K. Stellman died on Monday evening in a local hospital from injuries received that afternoon in an automobile accident at Guadalupe Street and Second Avenue when her husband, Louis Stellman, lost control of his car which traveled down a slope and hit a pine tree. Mrs. Stellman was thrown against the windshield. Her death was Carmel's first traffic fatality in 13 years, second in the history of the town.

Mrs. Stellman was born on September 6, 1877, in Ohio. She had lived in Carmel for the past ten years at Santa Fe Street and Ocean Avenue. She was an artist and writer. Her work Exposition Babies was a feature of the 1915 Exposition in San Francisco.

Mrs. Stellman is survived by her husband, reported in fair condition, at the Peninsula Community Hospital, and a nephew, Carl Kinney of Oberlin, Ohio.

Funeral services are pending at the Mission Mortuary.

Marion Chase

Mrs. Marion Monks Chase died on Monday evening in a local hospital. She was the widow of the late Percy Chase of Boston, Massachusetts, and the mother of Mrs. B. A. Behrend of Spindrift Road, Carmel Highlands.

Private funeral services will be held conducted by the Reverend Angus Dun Jr., rector of All Saints' Church.

Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

E. van Loben Sels

Mrs. Edith Page van Loben Sels died on Saturday morning in a local hospital following a heart attack. She had been a resident of Carmel for the past six years, moving here from Monterey where she had lived since 1935. Before that Mrs. van Loben Sels had resided in Berkeley and the Sacramento Valley.

She was born in 1885 on the Page Ranch near Santa Rosa, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Page, California pioneers.

Mrs. van Loben Sels attended the Hamlin School in San Francisco. Her marriage to James F. van Loben Sels in Berkeley in 1909 united two prominent California families.

Survivors are her husband, James van Loben Sels of Carmel; two sons, James P. van Loben Sels of Hanford and W. E. van Loben Sels of Carmel; two brothers, Roy and George Page of Carmel; two sisters, Mrs. F. R. Shumaker of Pebble Beach and Mrs. N. L. McLaren of San Francisco; and six grandchildren.

Private funeral services were held on Monday morning in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer officiating. Interment was in the family plot in Mountain View Cemetery in Oakland.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make donations in memory of Mrs. van Loben Sels may do so in the form of contributions to the Carmel Foundation, Box 3424, Carmel.

F. G. Cruickshank

F. George Cruickshank died on Tuesday afternoon in a local hospital. He had been a resident of Pebble Beach for the past ten years, coming here from Southern California after a distinguished career as an attorney.

Mr. Cruickshank was born in Omaha, Nebraska, on February 28, 1880. He was brought to Pasadena by his family when a small boy and spent most of his life in Southern California where he was a member of many social and civic organizations and clubs.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Cruickshank; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Dorothy Bell of Pebble Beach; and two step-grandchildren, Mrs. Verne Larson of Pebble Beach and Mrs. George Reid of Menlo Park.

Funeral services were held this morning at St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, with the Reverend Angus Dun Jr., rector of All Saints' Church, officiating.

Friends wishing to make donations in memory of Mr. Cruickshank are asked to do so in the form of contributions to the Peninsula Community Hospital.

Dorney and Farlinger Funeral Chapel was in charge of arrangements.

Final PTA Meeting Housewarming For New Music Room

Tuesday night the last PTA meeting for this school year was held in the new music building to elect next year's PTA officers and to christen the music building.

Dale Leidig, the president, opened the meeting with the announcement that Mrs. Gordon Reid would provide a home for next year's foreign exchange student and that anyone interested in locating a home in the future should get in touch with her. He also announced that a boxing tournament is to be held Friday night, May 3. He explained that this is the first time that any such event has been attempted. There will be ten matches and an exhibition by two men from Fort Ord.

The meeting was then turned over to Mr. John Farr, who put on an enjoyable musical program. The school choir sang four numbers. Next, Mr. Farr introduced a string quartet. This is the first time that the school has had the accommodations for such a quartet. They played two selections by Bach. Last on the program Mr. Farr introduced the Boys' Glee Club—also another first in the history of the school.

After the program Mr. Farr explained the construction of the building and invited everyone to look around. Then the meeting was turned back to Dale Leidig, who announced the nominees of the nominating committee. A motion was made that the nominations be accepted as they were. A vote was held and unanimously passed that Col. and Mrs. R. E. Osborne be the next presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mackenzie, vice-presidents; Mrs. Audrey M. Tetley, secretary; and Mrs. Walter Pilot, treasurer. They were duly installed by the president. Coffee and cookies were served in the cafeteria after the parents had inspected the new biology room, the other two new classrooms and the music building.

The students of Carmel High School appreciate the work that was done by this year's PTA and hope that next year's PTA will be as successful. — Diana Burk, Senior.

Reed Emmons

Walter Reed Emmons died on Friday morning from a brain hemorrhage believed to have been received from a fall. He was found unconscious in the driveway of his Carmel Highlands home early Wednesday morning and taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital. Emmons fell from his bed at the hospital on Friday morning. County Deputy Coroner Christopher Hill announced on Tuesday no inquest would be held. Reports of county pathologist Dr. Henry Crellin indicated death was due to a brain hemorrhage presumably received previous to the fall on the day of Emmons' death. Further laboratory tests are being made and results will be announced next week.

Mr. Emmons was born on May 28, 1911, in New York City. He was a veteran of World War II.

Before coming to the peninsula to live in 1948, Mr. Emmons was associated with advertising agencies in New York and with the Dallas Morning News. In 1953 he opened an advertising and public relations business on the peninsula.

He is survived by his wife, Dorcas Parker Emmons of Carmel Highlands; and a sister, Mrs. Harold Ingraham of Pennsylvania.

Private funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, the Reverend Angus Dun Jr., of All Saints' Episcopal Church officiating. Interment will be in the Urn Garden of El Carmelo Cemetery.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.
